Annie enjoyed art as a youngster, and she received a BFA from Michigan State University. Her mixed media is very unusual, using variations of painting; stamping; coloring; dyeing; and creating images on textiles, even using metal-work. Her interest comes from applying structured patterns, using a meditative drawing method called Zentangle. We look forward to her demonstration on August 14th at CCMA –9:30 A.M.

July Demo recap Sue Linn

thanks Sue

We thank Sue Linn for taking the time out of her busy schedule to share with our members a fascinating lecture of art history knowledge. She brought to life (1348-1453) the Europeans, Asia, France, Amsterdam trades, and in the 15th century Italy, the early Renaissance. She noted that the Bible was first printed in 1455. Paintings were being dissected for their meanings, details that most people today would gloss over as added items in the art, a testament to the symbolism the artists of that day used. Sue knows her history and she had so much information that it was impossible to relay all of it in the short time frame allowed, although she gave it her all!

How wonderful and special that she accompanies students to Europe on her off-the-beaten-path customized art tours. She is a caring teacher who wants to share her knowledge with the world. We look forward to future visits from Sue.
